Third Stunning Naval Victory For U. S. May Now Be In Making

By JOSEPH A. BORS
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)
WASHINGTON, June 16.—Incomplete reports from fog-shrouded Alaskan waters indicated today that America's third stunning victory over Japan's so-called invincible navy may be in the making in the north Pacific.

Following closely the smashing American successes over the Nipponese in the Coral Sea and at Midway Island, preliminary advices from the Aleutians stated that as many as seven Japanese warships and one transport may have been sunk or damaged by U. S. bombers in that area.

On the basis of the Navy's latest communique which said that "air attacks upon enemy landing parties" are continuing, naval experts declined, however, to claim another major victory for American forces pending more conclusive evidence from the isolated North Pacific.

These sources hesitated to claim definite victory in the fear that U.

Fierce Battle To Destroy Equipment Raging In Libya

CAIRO, June 16.—Tobruk once again became the focal point in the furious battle of Libya today as Axis tanks rumbled ever closer to the fortified port on the Mediterranean, 60 miles west of the Egyptian frontier.
And imminent activity in the Tobruk area was intensified as British Lieut. Gen. Neil M. Ritchie, by a brilliant withdrawal, brought into the Tobruk perimeter two divisions of British imperial troops from Ain El-Gazala, 40 miles west of Tobruk.

The communique reported that an Italian destroyer had been heavily damaged and a British destroyer sunk in an attack on a British convoy.

Editor's Note: It was not made clear whether the claim of sinking a British destroyer was in addition to previously reported sinkings in an engagement with British convoys in the Mediterranean. Destruction of a destroyer, among other war vessels, was claimed yesterday.
In Libya, the high command asserted, Italian forces "reached and passed" El Gazala, 40 miles west of Tobruk.

Tax-Writing House Committee Holds Proposal Over For "Future Action"

By ARTHUR HERMANN
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)
WASHINGTON, June 16.—The tax-writing house ways and means committee today shelved for "future action" a treasury proposal which would have limited individual incomes for single persons to $25,000 and married couples to $50,000 a year.
Committee Chairman Doughton (D) N. C., told reporters after a morning session that "members of the committee felt they should not take responsibility of passing on the measure at the present time, and I feel the same way."
Doughton explained that his group has not had ample time to consider the revolutionary proposal, and that his staff of experts were in disagreement with treasury experts over the plan.
At the same time, the committee chairman predicted that the $8-700,000,000 war revenue bill would be completely drafted and ready for the house by July 4.

REVOLUTION IN NAVAL ATTACK

By CAPTAIN JOHN H. CRAIGE
Written Especially for International News Service

Outstanding lesson of the great battles of the Coral Sea and Midway Island, now being revealed in detail, is that the effective range of mankind's artillery has gone up at a jump from a paltry 40 or 50 miles to 200, 300, perhaps 500 miles.

This constitutes the greatest revolution in war since the Genoa and Venetian introduced artillery on a large scale aboard their ships 500 years ago and shot up the astonished Turks, whom they were fighting for the mastery of the Mediterranean.

Since that time the cannon has dominated warfare at sea and for nearly half that period it has disrupted with the infantry the title of queen of the battlefield in land warfare. Now it seems that the handwriting on the wall is beginning to be visible.

More than 20 years ago, America's General Billy Mitchell first pointed out the fact that the giant bombing airplane would constitute the heavy artillery of the future. The big bomber, Mitchell said, could carry a bigger projectile than could be fired from any gun ever built by human hands and the airplane, he continued, could carry its deadly eggs further and place them more accurately on the target than any gun.

Prove Mitchell Correct
The Coral Sea and Midway battles have proved this prophecy exactly true. Whereas the longest range of our superdreadnaughts' giant 16-inch rifles is a trifle more than 20 miles, fleets in both these actions engaged at distances from 100 to 200 miles or more.

In these epoch-making naval battles, as far as the details thus far released show, not a single naval gun was fired by either side at an enemy surface ship. Guns of both fleets were fired with speed and accuracy unparalleled in naval war, but against assailing lines of ships of the air, not at their traditional naval targets.

Gone from naval war is the fleet-line of superdreadnaughts of the Jutland days, protected by scouting forces of cruisers and destroyers, pouring salvo after salvo from their batteries against the armored sides of similar naval leviathans.

Such concepts of sea war that ruled naval strategy and tactics for 40 years have gone up in smoke—the smoke of deadly bombs of TNT, dropped from the skies on decks where armor is weak.

Battleships that fought in the Coral Sea and Midway were so far to the rear and so heavily guarded that, so far as the records show, none were heavily engaged or seriously damaged. The superdreadnaught still has its uses for heavy, concentrated thrusts, but not for long-range fighting, at express-train speed.

Surprising even to the airplane's warmest advocates was their immunity to anti-aircraft fire and the tremendous volume of projectiles they were able to pour against the foe.

NAZI DRIVE ON KHARKOV FRONT IS SLOWED DOWN

bayonet point, Russian artillery is dealing heavy blows to the rear. Hundreds of dead and wounded Germans have been left on the field of battle, Pravda said.

Slowed Down At Kharkov

Counter-attacks by Marshal Semenov-Timoshenko's armies today slowed down the Nazi drive on the Kharkov front and a Russian offensive appeared under way in the Kursk sector, 200 miles to the north, to relieve German pressure in the Ukraine battle zone.

Pierce battling at Sevastopol raged into its 13th day with the Soviet defenders holding firm despite terrific German soundings from land batteries and Luftwaffe bombers.

The Red army high command announced that Soviet forces in the Kharkov sector had repelled numerous attacks by German tank and infantry forces. Some 180 Nazi tanks were said to have been destroyed or damaged in yesterday's fighting alone.

The famed heights of Balaklava, scene of the historic "Charge of the Light Brigade," took on a prominent role in the battle for the Sevastopol naval base.

Fleet Is Aiding Reds

The Moscow radio said powerful units of the Soviet Black Sea fleet took up position from which they were battering German artillery on the heights of Balaklava.

Sailors and marines from Black Sea ports carried out commando-type raids against the German forces besieging Sevastopol from several coastal points.

(The Daily Express in London quoted Russian reports that the Germans were using gliders to send in troops on the Sevastopol front. In the past few days, it was said, 128 Nazi planes and many gliders were destroyed.)

The Soviet counter-attacks against German Field Marshal Fedor von Bock's Kharkov armies, estimated at 30 divisions of 500,000 men, were reported to be exacting a tremendous toll as they hurled the enemy back at several points.

Red Army Holding

Although some wedges have been driven into the Russian lines a Red army was holding firm against the Nazi offensive forces. Large-scale battles were centered around the Izyum, Slavyansk and Volchansk sectors.

(Stockholm advices indicated that the Nazi armies in the north also had undertaken a powerful drive in the Leningrad area. Russian pressure reportedly was being brought against Nazi communications around Volkhov, just south of Leningrad, in an attempt to halt German offensive tactics in that sector.)

A supplement to the midnight Soviet communiqué said that on various sectors of the fighting front 64 enemy tanks and 22 trucks laden with troop supplies had been destroyed Sunday.

Two Russian torpedo boats were credited with sinking a Nazi submarine in northern waters.

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Vichy radio reported bloody encounters north of the Sevastopol front, where the Germans have massed seven divisions of infantry and at least 150 tanks. The defenders' situation was described as "serious."

On the Kharkov front, the Germans threw in large reserves but failed to regain positions lost last month. They also failed in a fierce four-day battle to seize hills covering the approaches to the Donetz river crossing and have now taken up the defensive in this area.

of the bombers were shot down by German fighter planes but that nothing was known of the fate of the other three.

LONDON, June 16.—The German radio today admitted, according to Reuters News Agency, that Seaborne Soviet forces had carried out attempts at Yalta, in the Crimea, and Mariupol in the Ukraine, but claimed the attempts were "completely frustrated."

The Mariupol landing reportedly was effected in an attempt to place Soviet forces behind the German lines in the Rostov area. An attack of Yalta apparently was designed to relieve Nazi pressure on the Sevastopol naval base.

A GULF PORT, June 16.—Struck by four torpedoes, a medium-sized American cargo vessel was sunk in the Gulf of Mexico on June 12 with the death of 15 persons, including four members of a nine-man gun crew, the navy announced today.

Fourteen of the 31 survivors managed to escape drowning by swimming in oil covered waters for more than eight hours.

Four of the navy gun crew lost their lives by sticking to their posts despite the fact the ship had been struck by two torpedoes and was already sinking. The crew could not spot the submarine but did see a light in the distance and fired three rounds before their gun became useless.

U. S. BOMBERS HAMMER JAPS IN ALEUTIANS

S. counter blows struck to date might not be sufficiently powerful to bar the Japs from their invasion objective.

Hampered by Weather

Pointing out that foul weather and fog had hampered American reconnaissance and attack operations, the navy stated that reports "indicate" that at least three cruisers, one destroyer, one gunboat and one transport have been damaged, "some of them severely."

At the same time a telegram of congratulations reportedly sent to officials of the Glenn D. Martin Bomber plant in Baltimore by Lieut. Gen. H. H. Arnold, Chief of the Army's air forces, apparently disclosed for the first time that a Jap cruiser was sunk and an enemy airplane carrier damaged in the Aleutian Island area.

While the Navy is said to be in charge of operations in the North Pacific, a naval spokesman asserted that the department has no confirmation of reports other than those contained in the communiqué.

However, army officials failed to deny the report which the company said it received from Arnold.

Major Victory Seen

Pending official confirmation or denial, therefore, these reports indicated a victory of major proportions may be in the making in the Aleutian area, where the Japanese landed at the western tip of the Archipelago following the bombing of the Dutch Harbor Naval base on June 3.

The Navy officially has admitted previously that the Japanese landed on Attu Island, but its latest communiqué stated that the Army and Navy are continuing air attacks against the Japanese forces which recently were reported to have landed on western islands of the Aleutian group.

This was construed by some naval experts as an indication that the Jap invasion forces may be of considerable size and possibly are moving eastward despite counter-blows by American units.

GORDON-POLEN WEDDING IN SECOND U. P. CHURCH

Most impressive was the wedding ceremony which took place in the Second United Presbyterian church on Saturday afternoon, June 13, at 4:30 o'clock, the principals being Vivian Hamill Gordon, daughter of Mrs. A. G. Lang, of Highland Heights, and Charles Oliver Polen, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles O. Polen, Sr., of Croton avenue. The newlyweds have returned from a short trip to Cleveland, O., and have taken up residence at the home of the bridegroom's parents.

Rev. J. Calvin Rose, pastor of the church, was the officiating minister, using the single ring service, in the presence of friends and relatives numbering upwards thirty.

Miss Ruth Weir, organist, played a program of nuptial music preceding and during the service.

For her marriage, the bride was attired in a sand brown crepe two piece street length dress, with white accessories. Her shoulder corsage of Tallman roses was the only added touch of color. Miss Edith Rowe as maid of honor, wore a blue and white print dress, street length, with accessories in white and a shoulder bouquet of gardenias.

Following a congratulatory period in the church and reception at the Polen residence, a wedding dinner for the immediate families, was served at a prominent tea room.

TURN IN YOUR OLD RUBBER

RESULTS of the two-week drive to collect old rubber, will have far-reaching importance. On the amount of salvaged scrap may depend the continued operation of many civilian automobiles and the nation-wide rationing of gasoline to conserve rubber.

The drive is a fact-finding enterprise. We know how much crude rubber we have in the nation's stockpile. We can estimate pretty closely the amount of synthetic product that will be available in the next year or two. But the facts on reclaimable rubber scattered throughout the country are utterly unknown.

Two weeks from now we shall be better informed. One of the largest rubber manufacturers believes 500,000 tons of usable rubber could be recovered by an intensive salvage campaign. If any such amount is obtained, it will go a long way toward supplementing the 600,000 tons of crude now on hand and the approximately 300,000 tons expected from synthetic production next year.

All the scrap that can be assembled is necessary to carry us through the present critical period. Every individual should take part in the salvage campaign, because it is to his own interest to keep essential vehicles moving.

Every home has a bit of used rubber here and there that could be reclaimed, from old overshoes, ice cube trays, medicine droppers and girdles to hot water bottles, jar rings and toy soldiers.

Every ounce of old rubber is just that much added to our effort to win the war—provided it is removed from cellars, attics and garages and put to work.

CITY ACOUSTICS

That the science of acoustics applies out-of-doors as well as inside halls is a fact New York City is discovering by experience with air raid sirens. These are now being tested out in the big city and their sound eventually is to cover 320 square miles.

But it was found that for all its uproar the sirens' sound did not reach certain "dead spots." These, curiously, were not in the skyscraper sections, like Wall Street, as might be supposed. The reception in lower Manhattan with its canyons of steel, stone and rock, was good.

As one of the measures to detect the "dead spots" a thousand policemen were stationed about the city. A two-minute warble sounded the alarm at noon, with a three-minute silence followed by the "all-clear"—a two-minute wail.

Fifty-eight "dead spots" were identified and additional sirens are being installed to make a complete coverage.

A PAT FOR THE RAILROADS

Transportation is no less vital to the war effort than production. In 1917 the railroads broke down under the heavy volume of freight they were called upon to handle and the government took over their operation. They were caught unprepared then, but not this time.

Long before industry had swung into high gear the railroads had started their preparedness program and in the last year the feats in transportation have fully matched those in production.

In placing his stamp of approval on what has been accomplished to date in moving war materials, Transportation Director Eastman attests to the completeness and effectiveness of railroad planning. He sees no necessity for government taking control and would regard any such move with apprehension. While recognizing the heavy handicap they are under due to the limitations that have had to be placed on new locomotives and cars, he is depending upon the "resiliency and reserve strength" of the railroads to meet demands.

This is high praise from the man to whom President Roosevelt has delegated full direction of the nation's transportation facilities during the war. The nation will find it reassuring. In turn it may be said that the railroad results are due in no small part to Mr. Eastman's skill and experience as well as the confidence he has engendered through long service with the Interstate Commerce Commission.

ATLANTIC SEA FRONTIER

By mid-July patrols instead of convoys are to attempt the sealing of the eastern sea frontier of the United States. By that time sufficient patrol boats may be available to accomplish the change. The toll of submarine victims should drop.

Not only are private craft being acquired, but production of PC boats has been sharply increased. In five weeks the Navy expects to have many 173-foot PC boats, 110-footers, and old destroyers available for patrol duty centering out of Miami. These boats will be equipped with detectors and signal devices.

The Navy's strength has been sufficient north of Long Island to operate an almost airtight convoy system to Iceland, Ulster, England and Russia. It has been in more tropical waters that shipping has been picked off so persistently by submarines that such supplies as gasoline and food-tuffs from Central America have become scarce.

The Navy's war on U-boats is far tougher in this war than in the last. Then it was sufficient to mine the relatively short shoreline of Germany and Belgium. Today the entire coast of Norway, Germany, Holland, Belgium, France and—yes—Spain, as well as French Africa, is available.

The cruising range of 1914-18 submarines was limited. U-boats now can go 15,000 miles, which means 8,000 miles available for cruising on a 7,000-mile round trip. The French and Italian navies are not available to the Allies this time. And America's strength must be divided to cover the Far East.

Von Tirpitz never had more than fourteen submarines at sea on a single day. The Germans and Italians have 300 out now, and it is estimated that 10 per cent of them are in the Caribbean.

This would be the poorest possible time to resuscitate one of those old editorials entitled, "The Approaching Automobile Saturation Point."

However, some people still wish that Heydrich had lived to fasten another kind of no-kie on Laval.

French on the channel coast have been warned by the British to evacuate. The Allied troops will attend to the evacuation of Hitler's troops.

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

P. T. A. A BOON TO CHILDREN

The one national organization, which I think, has done more than any other for our children and their parents in the United States, is the National Congress of Parents and Teachers. Every state has a congress as a branch of the national body, and most local school districts, especially those most up and coming, have one or many local units with working relations with the state and national bodies. The yearly dues of its nearly three million members is less than the price of the average admission to a moving picture show and its officers from the local president and her assistants to the national president and her assistants all serve without pay.

The Congress of Parents and Teachers, known as the P. T. A., is concerned with the child and his family, school, church and community. The Parent-Teacher Association is non-commercial, non-sectarian, non-political. It works for legislation for the protection of children and promotion of their welfare.

During the last depression, when the school budgets were eyed by selfish interests as an easy place to reduce expenditures of public funds, the influence of the PTA led the public to put brakes on their reduction.

After this war, as the federal taxes mount, the school budgets will be eyed again with a view to deep cuts and our defenseless children will be among the first victims of retrenchment, unless enough parents come to their rescue. We can look to the PTA to do yeoman service again in this direction.

Program chairman planning for next year will want to center most meetings about problems concerning children and their families during these times, especially in respect to nutrition, health (physical and mental), family relations and home-school relationships. Suggestions for good program making may be had through your state and national office.

Q My boy eight years old must always come to the house when the street lights appear. He complains to me that he is the only boy on the street who must do this.

A Tell him it is none of your business what other people's children do. Say no more but be sure he cannot escape obedience of this rule for the next several years.

The World and the Mud Puddles

MARTIN TREPTOW'S PLEDGE

In 1917, during the first World War, a young Iowa lad named Martin Treptow was serving his country as a soldier at Chateau Thierry in France. One day, when carrying a message, Martin Treptow was hit by a shell fragment and killed.

As his body was being prepared for burial, there were taken articles and papers from his clothing to be sent to his family. In one of his pockets his comrades found a diary, and on the flyleaf Martin Treptow had entered under the heading, "My Pledge," the following:

"America must win this war. Therefore, I will sacrifice; I will endure; I will fight cheerfully and do my utmost as if the issue of the whole struggle depended on me alone."

That statement, printed recently in the Congressional Record, was a fitting memorial to Martin Treptow, who in word and deed displayed sincerity and determination in his love of country that is the stuff of true patriotism.

Today, as America faces another great war crisis, requiring the utmost in sacrifices from all our people, Martin Treptow's pledge should be everyone's pledge. On that battlefield in France a quarter century ago, an Iowa boy put down in simple words the real meaning of Americanism in the hour of national need and danger.

A new treatment for alcoholics is said to cure 60 per cent. It is known as the "conditioned reflex method."

It creates an aversion to sight, taste and smell of alcohol.

An emetic which produces prompt vomiting is given.

Then liquor is urged on the patient repeatedly.

As soon as he drinks the liquor he vomits violently.

Repeated, this treatment soon discourages liquor drinking.

The treatment is continued at intervals for a year or so.

The aversion to all alcoholic beverages is well established.

Apparently hopeless cases have responded successfully.

Curing chronic alcoholics is notoriously difficult.

The conditioned reflex method seems to be doing the job.

SECOND-HAND GOSSIP

"No, darling," the mother told her child, "I do not think you are going to get a new doll. The one you have is perfectly good. In fact, it is as good as new."

"But mother," objected the little girl, "I'm just as good as new and that didn't stop you from getting a new baby."

In some communities, in-mate friends of an engaged girl show their friendship for her by giving her "showers" at which all those invited shower her with articles for herself and her new home.

Question: (1) Is it good form to send out engraved cards announcing an engagement? (2) Should a girl be congratulated upon her engagement? (3) Should a bride-to-be wear her engagement ring before formal announcement is made?

Answer: (1) No. Newspaper and verbal announcements only are in good taste. (2) The man should be congratulated. She should be given best wishes. (3) No. It should not be worn publicly until the day on which the announcement is made.

Question: Is the bride supposed to supply the dresses for her attendants?—D. H.

Answer: The attendants should supply their own dresses, unless the bride is wealthy and offers to do so.

What's What At A Glance

We May Have To Fight Japs Alone
Germans May Fold Up Pretty Soon
Mussolini's Fate Held Uncertain

By CHARLES P. STEWART

Central Press Columnist

WASHINGTON, June 16.—Predicting what'll happen in Germany if and when Japan and Italy flatten out isn't so difficult. The Nazis will fold up pretty speedily. It was demonstrated, back in '18, that the country's one that knows, for quite a while, anyway, when it's licked. Herr Hitler will be bumped off, maybe by the democratic allies, maybe by his own crowd, which can't but be completely disaffected with him, possibly by his own volition, in typical Teutonic fashion. The Germans, however, will continue to be recognized as a people. No doubt they'll be considerably policed and restricted for a long time to come. They'll be disliked for having acquiesced in Adolf, but after all, they still will be recognized as human beings. They'll be blamed, not so much for themselves alone, as for having fallen, first for the Kaiser and then for the Fuehrer. It'll be suspected that it's a tendency which seems habitual with em. There's a lot of talk to the effect that this has got to be a "happier post-war world," and Germany will be accorded a niche in it.

And when Germany and Japan flatten out? What'll happen to Italy?

Mussolini a Sucker

Nothing serious. Some think the same thing or things will occur to Senior Mussolini that will occur to Adolf Hitler, but his fate will be strictly personal. Benito himself is regarded more of a sucker than a miscreant. Even if he could be caught, I doubt that anything worse would be done to him than to shut him up in a nut house. There's precious little feeling against the Italians generally. The most they'll lose will be a bit of outlying territorial possessions.

But what about Japan? When Germany and Italy go floozy? Especially Germany, Italy's immediate neighbor.

Italy is a European and slightly Mediterranean and North African problem. Germany's essentially European. Both issues more or less sidewise us, here in the United States, but they aren't so vital to us as the Asiatic one.

True, western hemispherically, we've got two fronts.

It's the Atlantic one, though, that we've got allies on.

Let's clear, though, that the Pacific side's the one we've got to scramble on—Pearl Harbor, Alaska, the Aleutians, still farther south on the mainland and Midway.

The area's our funeral.

But essentially—

We help the Allies in and somewhat beyond the eastern Atlantic coast and down in the Australasian seas. It's up to us to help 'em, the northern Pacific ocean and mainland, on both sides, are ours. They're ours that are being attacked.

In a sense we're being more nearly attacked by the Japs.

And Then Japan

So, when the Germans and the relatively unimportant Italians are disposed of, what about those infernal Japs—those who may flatten out also, or who may remain cuckoo, as they have a habit of doing.

We may have a Jap war to fight indefinitely.

We'll have helped the United Nations, but will they stay put for a Jap-American one?

Or will it degenerate into a Jap-American war exclusively?

Those Japs may not quit, just because Europe does.

Of course we still have China. I'm not pooh-poohing China.

Yet it does mean that a considerable amount of readjustment is going to be required, plus Europe, before Uncle Sam's future is again anteated satisfactorily on into eternity.

China has turned civilized.

Gosh, knows, as to the Jap military class!

How far's the world civilized?

You can guess on Germany and Italy. Can you guess on the Orient? I'm pro-Chinese. But on the Japs?

These imps are producers of grief and pain.

And fire and shipwreck and fallen plane.

Under the waters cargoes sink.

And somebody whimpers: "I didn't think!"

Into the hospitals victims go.

And somebody's answer is: "I didn't know."

Crippled for life must a comrade be.

Some one regretful says: "I didn't see!"

Boy, if you'll pause for a moment's thought!

By that "I didn't think," you will not be caught—

It only you'll learn where the danger lies.

To "I didn't know," you can say goodbye.

If watchful ever you'll think to be.

You'll never be plagued by "I didn't see!"

For these imps of sorrow and loss and pain.

With a moment's care can all be slain.

Spare Them From Chair, Counsel For Four Implores Judge Rowley

(Special To The News)
MERCER, June 16—Admitting that the killing of James M. Supplee was first degree murder, counsel for the four defendants in the case today pleaded for Judge George H. Rowley to sentence them to life imprisonment instead of to death in the electric chair.

The defendant's pleas for mercy were made at a hearing before Judge Rowley when counsel reviewed testimony given by the youths and District Attorney Edwin C. Moon, last week.

Declaring a recess at noon, Judge Rowley ordered the hearings continued this afternoon.

Prior to the hearing in the Supplee case, Judge Rowley sentenced nine men for criminal offenses to which they pleaded guilty.

In pleading for sentences for life imprisonment, the youths' counsel said that the murder was not premeditated and that the robbery which was attempted had been planned only a half hour previous to the shooting. William Johannes' attorney said if Johannes had intended to kill Supplee he would have fired more than one shot and that he would not have permitted an eye witness to the shooting to remain to tell police of the crime.

The attorneys told Judge Rowley that they believe death in the electric chair is punishment intended only for defendants in first degree murder where killing is intentional and premeditated.

They insisted that Supplee's death was the result of the accidental discharge of Johannes' gun, and that no premeditation or intent was involved.

Truckers Will Conserve Rubber

Speed Of Trucks To Be Guarded And Other Protection Steps Taken

Determined to conserve rubber on their truck wheels, members of the Lawrence County chapter, Pennsylvania Motor Truck Association have organized themselves into a committee of common protection. For the duration of the war each member will constitute himself a high-way checker. Every time he sees a PMTA truck being driven at a high speed, being braked carelessly, or being taken around curves at unnecessary speed, he will report it to the organization and the owner of the offending truck notified.

"Conserving rubber is more than a patriotic gesture upon the part of the truck owner," said President Al W. Bauman, Jr. "It is a matter of self preservation, for the truck company that wants to stay in business is going to have to conserve tires and parts."

"There is no necessity for trucks being driven at high speeds, nor for them to be loaded beyond the capacity per tire set down by the government. Taking curves at a speed that causes tires to screech and burn is waste and we are all interested in knowing whether our equipment is being operated properly."

"The self-imposed duty of checking the highways starts immediately. This rubber shortage is so serious that the truck operator that does not do everything humanly possible to conserve is going to find himself short of equipment."

The decision to check truck operations came at the Monday night dinner-meeting of the chapter. The state convention, which takes place in Harrisburg Friday and Saturday, June 19-20, was discussed and many of the local members will be present.

State Second Vice President Paul W. Keely spoke upon the convention and also upon the new O. D. T. rules which apply to truck operations.

Local Woman Now Junior Draftsman

Holds Place As Result Of Training In Defense Courses Conducted Here

For the first time in the history of the Pennsylvania Engineering Co., a woman is filling the job of junior draftsman. The story of Miss Sara Wilson of Park avenue is typical of instances all over the country where women are filling jobs vacated by men as called into the armed services.

Believing it would help in her work at Edinboro State Teachers' college, Miss Wilson enrolled in the extension course in engineering drafting offered last summer by the Carnegie Institute of Technology through Westminster college and by Pennsylvania State college.

For four hours two evening a week she studied the intricacies of tracing and drafting with a class that met at New Castle high school. That training has given her a part this summer in helping to win the war through production.

As junior draftsman at the Pennsylvania Engineering Co., Miss Wilson is already tracing plans for machine parts before final blueprints are made. Later she will do actual engineering drafting.

According to Chief Engineer H. L. McFeaters, there will be more and more jobs in this kind of work open to women as the war progresses.

War Argument Ends In Prison Murder

Western Pennsylvania Convict Slays Fellow Prisoner In Yard

(International News Service)
PITTSBURGH, June 16—An argument over the war was blamed today for the prison-yard fight of two Negro convicts in Western penitentiary which resulted in the death of one, James Clements, 55, of Pittsburgh, whose jugular vein was severed with a hand-made knife, Deputy Warden T. H. Gaffney reported.

John Pie, 57, who was sentenced to jail originally for breaking and entering, and then had another six to 12 years added on to his term for a futile escape, was accused of the slaying. Gaffney said he had started an investigation to determine how Pie got the metal to make the knife.

Clements was sentenced to serve five to 10 years in February, 1941, for robbery.

G. McMullen. These men will meet at eight p. m. in city hall, Wednesday.

The inaugural session was held Sunday afternoon. Of the more than 100 who have volunteered their service to the civilian council of city defense, a score were present to hear preliminary talks as to what their duties consist of.

Fire-Watchers Needed Here

Chief Sargeant Would Like To Have Persons Join This Service

There is a shortage of fire-watchers here according to Frank Sargent, air raid warden chief, who also has charge of the civilian defense fire watchers. He is anxious to have citizens align themselves with this branch of defense.

The fire-watchers service requires more members than any other service.

A Mr. Tackitt of 508 West Cherry street reported to city police Monday he had been attacked by a dog owned at 501 West Cherry street.

Adding to the number of send-offs that are being held at Pennsylvania depot nearly every morning this week, Staff Sergeant John L. Dean, marine recruiting officer, announced today that eight marine recruits will "shove off" tomorrow morning for the Pittsburgh induction center.

Tomorrow's send-off makes the fourth so far this month for the marine office. "It is, without doubt, the busiest month I have had in New Castle," Sergeant Dean said.

The men leaving are Frank D. McCreary, A. D. 6, New Castle; Donald E. Williams, R. D. 1, Enon Valley; Raymond R. Rowland, 501 B street, Sharon; Ronald G. Hietich, 526 Lyndal street, New Castle.

Thomas W. McCullough, R. D. 1, New Castle; Leo August Lenherr, Jr., 804 Wilmington avenue, New Castle; and Andrew Klotz, 1116 Emerson avenue, Farrell.

The group will bring Sergeant Dean's total for the month up to 20 and keeps him well ahead of competing sub-stations. Among his rivals are included such cities as Wheeling and Johnstown, so New Castle may well feel proud of the way its men are answering Uncle Sam's call.

ice in the Citizens Defense corps, he stated.

Personnel certified as air raid wardens may be transferred to that service if desired.

It isn't likely many of the air raid wardens, once having been certified will shift to the other branch and for this reason Chief Sargent would like to have a large number of persons become fire-watchers.

Sargent asserted that the Monday night meetings were featured by large attendances.

"They are destroying Democracy!" usually means: "They are requiring great men—to sacrifice a little to save America."

Women officers can't date mere enlisted men; that would be democratic like Germany and Russia.

'Memory Genius' Amazes Rotarians And Lions

A. S. Kellogg, a Chicago memory expert who started his training in 1917 at the suggestion of a friend who was a Y. M. C. A. secretary, entertained New Castle Rotary club members at luncheon in The Castleton on Monday and the Lions club members at their meeting in the hotel this noon.

It has been a long time since demonstrations of memory skill have so impressed an audience here. And all of Kellogg's auditors probably secretly wished that they too possessed a fraction of his technique when it comes to commanding figures and places and names.

Especially would insurance men benefit from such an art, for Kellogg can rattle off insurance tables —with deadly accuracy—for a long time. And one would never have to finger a book to learn the population of any city, because Kellogg's "mental warehouse" has every one of them stored away for quick reference.

Books of the Bible, too, give him no trouble at all, and he can tell you how many chapters and pages all of them contain.

That's only the half of it, too, for in a variety of fields he has mastered figures of intricate tabulation. Yesterday's luncheon ended in a patriotic note when one of the Rotary crowd, following the program, quipped:

"Do you remember Pearl Harbor?"

Glider Pilots Are Army's Biggest Need

Entrance Requirements Low-ered; Men Now Eligible Up To 36

New opportunities for flying service are open to all men between the ages of 18 and 35 who want to fly for their country but cannot qualify as aviation cadets, Sergeant John T. Bilpuch, Army recruiting officer in the Post Office Building, announced today.

"Glider pilot training is available to men who are slightly short of the physical requirements for aviation cadets and for men over 26," said Sergeant Bilpuch. "Here is a chance to learn to fly and to serve your country at the same time. The army has recognized the extreme usefulness of gliders in modern warfare," continued the sergeant, "and we need men, able men and plenty of men, to fly them."

Glider pilots of two classifications are being taken right now. The first, or Class A, includes men who have had flying experience. To be a Class A applicant you must have had the equivalent of a private pilot's license and certify that you have never flunked a preliminary flying course.

But Class B applicants, and Sergeant Bilpuch emphasized this class for interested New Castle youths, need have no previous aerial training and must pass only a physical and a mental test, the requirements for which are not quite so strict as that for army airplane pilots. For instance, visual acuity may be 20/40, correctable to 20/20 with glasses.

Class B applicants will be taught to fly light airplanes before they begin their glider training.

Due to the exceptionally heavy demand for glider pilots, all men in New Castle or vicinity who are interested in flying for the army are urged to report immediately to Sergeant Bilpuch's office in the Post Office and learn how they can enlist in this branch of service.

Keep Electric Appliances Repaired

Every electric appliance you own has many more hours of duty in it than you realize. The manufacturer made it that way, even before there was any thought of priorities. Now, thanks to the rigid tests and experiments in his laboratories, you have toasters and irons, washers and ranges, cleaners and lamps that needed little closer watching, a little bit more care, to carry you through the duration.

Send for the Electric Repairman . . .

Shut off the current as soon as you are through using an appliance. Don't use frayed or worn cords. And if you need to have repairs made, send for your repairman, or better still, take the appliance in for checking.

Automatic 14 Day Furloughs For Selectees

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, June 16 — Beginning today selectees entering the Army at Philadelphia and Greensburg are given a 14-day automatic furlough.

Selectees inducted at other army reception centers throughout the state can apply only for the 10-day maximum furlough until change overs are made on July 1 and July 16. After those dates, inductees may be granted the 14-day furlough.

Selective service officials explained that the staggered system of changing from the present policy to the newly-adopted plan was to prevent any reduction of enlisted men through reception centers. Men granted the 14-day furlough will receive from the army expenses for their trip back home and later from their homes to the reception center.

Visiting King George Of Greece Addresses Joint Session

VOW TO LIBERATE HOMELAND GIVEN

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, June 16.—King George II of Greece, in an address to a joint meeting of the Senate and House, yesterday said that he and his free Greek forces are determined to continue the struggle for the liberation of Greece "no matter what the hardships."

"The king, who is on a state visit to this country, told Congress that his country is eager to contribute whatever it can, not only to the winning of the war but the peace that follows."

"With all our free fighting men who have survived, with all our ships which have not been sunk, we will fight on land, we will fight on sea, and we will fight in the air to the very end, by your side, by the side of the other United Nations, until barbaric violence is put down and a new world is established—a world for free men, not for slaves," the king said.

"The Greek monarch added that when his country decided to defy both Italy and Germany, the people realized that they would probably be conquered before sufficient assistance would reach them from their friends."

"But no Greek doubted for an instant where honor lay," the king said. "With the help of God and knowing that every Greek was ready to die in defense of freedom and his honor, I assumed the responsibility to history and to the Greek people to lead them forward in the full performance of their duty. At one of the most critical crossroads of human history, when the fate of one civilization hung by the balance, Greece proved by its stand that no price was too high to pay for human freedom and international decency."

Kings Meets Peanut Man
Washington, June 16.—President Roosevelt yesterday brought together King George II of Greece and his former humble subject, Steve Vasilikos, colorful peanut vendor doing business outside the White House and an American citizen only since 1940.

In true democratic tradition, Vasilikos appeared at Washington's historic Blair House Mansion this morning to be "received" by the king.

For the unusual royal interview, Steve arrived in his shirt-sleeves with a MacArthur button prominently displayed on his blue and red striped necktie.

The interview was brief. The exchange according to Vasilikos was the following:
"How is business?" the king inquired.
"Good," replied the peanut vendor.
"Do you speak Greek?" George II then asked and Vasilikos replied: "I certainly do."

Brunette And Pal Get $6,200 Payroll

(International News Service)
MEDWAY, Mass., June 16.—An armed bandit and brunette female accomplice made their getaway Monday after taking a $6,200 payroll from the Fabian Woolen company.

Wearing welder's goggles, the man entered the outer office of the company with a sawed-off shotgun and ordered five men and a woman to line up against the wall. He walked into an inner office where the payroll was being made up and stuffed the money into a canvas bag and a pocket.

Meanwhile, the woman was waiting in a sedan outside with the motor running. As he jumped in, the duo made their getaway.

Monongahela Holds This Against Axis

(International News Service)
MONONGAHELA, Pa., June 16.—The children—yes, and adults too—of Monongahela added another grievance to settle with the Axis after the war when the community picnic, an annual affair for almost 50 years was cancelled because of the transportation problem.

The Monongahela Business Men's Association, sponsor of the annual outing, called off the picnic, perhaps for the duration, since it is impossible to charter excursion trains and in view of the rationing of tires and gasoline.

Rubber Expert Sees Progress

Government Man Sees 50 Plants Under Experiment By '43

By MARGO TUPPER
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, June 16.—Loren G. Polahamus, rubber expert of the bureau of plant industry, said Monday that by the end of 1943 over 50 different species of rubber plants would be under experimental cultivation in this country.

"The most productive rubber plant under cultivation now," he said, "is Guayule which is under experimentation in California, and has the highest percentage of rubber (20 per cent) of any of the 5,000 rubber plants brought to our attention."

"The older this plant is the greater the latex yield," he explained. "If we harvest the 1943 crop of 50,000 acres in 1946 we would get 17,000 tons of latex, yet if we wait until 1947 we would obtain 36,000 tons."

"The Guayule plant we have under cultivation now," he said, "are for seed purposes only. Other leading plants now under cultivation and which will be produced in abundance next year include Kak-Saghyz (Russian dandelion), golden rod, Central American rubber trees and Chrysa Stega."

Polahamus said that Walter B. Haich, a New York importer, who testified before a house committee last week was "talking through his hat" when he said the rubber plant known as Chrysa Stega would produce five or six tons of rubber per acre.

NICE PEOPLE
Seems as though some folks can't resist the urge to scratch varnished wood, or write their names on walls. An exhibitionist complex perhaps, or it may be just vandalism. Already the handsome oak panelling in the corridor of the court house has felt the hand of the petty vandal. One deep scar has been cut in the panelling and the stairway shows two or three scrapes.

The janitors of the court house are being instructed to watch for such vandalism and the first person caught is going to take his meals back in the jail as the guest of Sheriff Clyde D. Badger. In the meantime the county commissioners will probably offer a reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of persons doing it.

TAX SALES
Much of court time Monday morning was taken up by passing upon tax sales. Property that has been sold to the county commissioners and which they have held for two years is now being sold for what it will bring. Each sale has to have the approval of the court.

STILL MOVING
By the end of the week all offices in the court house are expected to house the people intended for them. County Treasurer Earl R. Wimer has his force and equipment moved back to his own quarters, the commissioners' office force is about through moving and the commissioners and the court will be next in line.

Of the two offices formerly used by the commissioners, Register and Recorder Orville Potter gets one for use of his force. The use of the front room has not been decided as yet. County Superintendent of Schools John C. Sylling will take over the offices now used by the two judges, and the Commodory Rationing Board will take over Sylling's office it is anticipated.

CASES FILED
Cases filed in the past few days are as follows:

State Capital and Loan Association files a suit to recover a mortgage of $1018.92 from Carrie F. Hahn, Everett William Dangerfield, Adeline (or Ada) Dangerfield and Harold Dangerfield, real owners.
L. F. Sonntag, agent for the Dollar Savings Association, files an amicable ejectment against Mike Russell and his wife Minty Russell and Carl and Laura Russell.
Nick Emis of New Castle asks a divorce from Effie Emis of Ambbridge upon the grounds of desertion. They were married June 26, 1936, in New Castle.

The H. O. L. C. files an amicable ejectment against George S. Warso and Grace Warso.

NEW DRIVE WAY NEEDED
With the court house all dressed up in its new gown, one thing seems to be needed to finish the appearance and that is a new driveway into the jail. The driveway is broken and rutted and the commissioners will probably take some action soon. What they would like to do is put a new sidewalk in front of the court house property from McCreary Way to Washington street. They will do it if the city will install the curbing necessary.

VOTE REGISTRATION
For the week ending June 13th, 26 voters registered in the Office of Permanent Registration. Of this number 16 registered Republican, 8 registered Democratic, 1 Independent, 1 Prohibitionist. Two Republicans switched to Democratic and one from Democratic to Republican.

- OR
- Your Gas Range is worn out, destroyed or damaged beyond repair.

Now it is possible for you to secure a Gas range or Gas heating stove if you need one. The Government wants you to keep on using what you have now, if you can, but—if you actually need either one—you can get it. For the Government realizes how important proper cooking and heat are to health and morale.

If you do not have usable cooking equipment, all you have to do is sign the following statement which your dealer will prepare for you: "The following equipment . . . is required by me for use in my place of residence, in which there is no equipment of the type listed. Further, I do not have available any other equipment which I can use in my place of residence instead of the above listed equipment."

If your present Gas range must be replaced and your dealer upon inspection finds that it is worn out, damaged or destroyed, beyond repair, he has a simple form which can be used to enable him to deliver the new equipment to you immediately.

The Same Rules Apply to Gas Heating Stoves. Before purchasing a Gas heating stove, check with your dealer or Gas company regarding government regulations affecting the use of Natural Gas for heating.

So . . . if you need a new Gas range or a new Gas heating stove . . . get in touch with your nearest dealer today and he will help you. Practically every Gas appliance dealer still has ample stocks and is ready to sell to you.

It's possible also to get a new Gas water heater—if you can establish definite need for one. Your plumber or heating dealer can help you determine this.

Rome Report Says Mediterranean Battle Is Continuing

British Convoy Is Under Attack

Italians Claim Seven Vessels, Three Of Them Warships, Have Been Sunk

ITALIAN FLEET ALSO HAS LOSSES

(International News Service) ROME, June 16.—(By Official Italian Wireless)—Italian quarters stated today that an air and naval battle which began Sunday in the Mediterranean with an Italian attack on British convoys still is continuing. In a special communique the Italian high command claimed that seven vessels were sunk, three of them warships, and a total of 30 hit. A subsequent communique admitted that an Italian heavy cruiser had been lost and that a destroyer had been heavily damaged.

(An authoritative British spokesman, taking cognizance for the first time of the Italian reports, said that there is little doubt an attack "on a very large scale" occurred.

Claims Likely Inaccurate

(But, he said, Italian claims are likely to prove inaccurate although some losses must be expected. British convoys, he pointed out, are well protected by naval units and aircraft and the enemy would be unable to carry out attacks with impunity. The spokesman said that he did not consider British losses would be "greater than might be expected." Until the convoy is unloaded, he added, there is not likely to be any British communique.)

Two British cruisers, one of the Southampton class, were reported sunk by the Italians. The other five vessels sent to the bottom, it was said, included a destroyer.

"The attack, which almost certainly is the war's greatest air and naval battle," the Rome radio said.

Yank Airman 'Hit Somebody,' Turned Out To Be Own Buddy

By PAT ROBINSON
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

SOMEWHERE IN AUSTRALIA, June 16.—Many strange things happen in combat, but none stranger than what happened to Captains Bill Hornsby, Columbia, S. C., and Wyatt Patrick Exum, from Goldsboro, N. C.

For Exum, says Hornsby, shot him down.

These two pilots went to flying school together and have been intimate friends through four years of army life. They were telling about the incident last night while talking with friends. Hornsby told the story, with much kidding from Exum and the others.

"Exum, there," said Hornsby, "he accidentally shot me down, and that's more than any Jap has been able to do. If Hirohito ever finds out about it he's going to pin the Order of the Rising Sun on Exum's chest."

Propeller Got the Grape

One day we were having a nice dogfight with a big bunch of Japs and going fine when I notice a Zero diving on Exum's tail.

"At the time I was traveling in Exum's direction looking for more trouble after knocking down one Jap Zero. The Jap sees me and cuts off to one side and I speed in between the Zero and Exum."

"The Zero and Exum both shoot at the same time. The Zero misses, but Exum pours grape into my propeller and one wing and I'm in a helluva fix."

"I hustle away the best I can because the neighborhood is very unhealthy with a damaged plane, and I am not eager to make my wife, Betty, a widow."

"I headed out along the shore and picked out a nice spot on the beach and landed. I got a native canoe to take me back home."

Bill's chief took over the story. "You should have seen Exum's face when we were checking results of the dogfight," he said. "He says, 'Bill, you know I hit somebody but I think maybe it was one of our own men.'"

"Well, nobody was missing except Hornsby and he comes storming in about two hours later bellowing about a man's ingenuity to man, and carefully eyeing Exum while trying to figure out his forty-five."

"We salvaged and repaired the plane, which is still doing well in combat."

KIDS GET RUBBER AND ICE CREAM STORE PAYS OFF!

(International News Service) ST. LOUIS, June 16.—Mrs. Mary Vesich of St. Louis and children in the neighborhood of her ice cream store co-operated Monday in the nation's drive for scrap rubber with youngsters gathering the vitally needed material and Mrs. Vesich paying off in ice cream cones.

She estimated that so far 1,000 pounds of scrap rubber have been deposited with her by the children to whom, she said, she has given more than 700 ice cream cones for their efforts.

"I'm going to turn over all the rubber collected to the government free of charge," said Mrs. Vesich who, like her husband, is a naturalized American.

Johnson Home

ELLWOOD CITY, June 16.—Thirty friends of music and of two young Ellwood musicians were the guests of Mrs. John H. Hough, and Miss Miriam Johnson last evening at the latter's home, in Spring avenue.

Paul Hough, culminating his studies with Miss Johnson, and Samuel Rice, violinist, a student at the Eastman school of music, Rochester, N. Y., presented a program which belied the claim that Ellwood City lacks possibilities for a musical community.

Mr. Rice's playing of the First Movement of the Violin Concerto in A Minor and of the Bach-Gounod, Ave Maria, showed a remarkable growth in technique and understanding since he was last heard here.

Mr. Hough's program consisted of two Preludes, two Mazurkas, a waltz and an Etude of Chopin, a Schumann Nocturne, the Mozart Fantasia in D minor and finally the Beethoven Sonata. The latter consisting of three parts is best known by the descriptive title, "Pathétique."

Since Beethoven fought against misfortune, the three pieces of the Sonata are a drama of triumph over fate. Paul played the difficult music in an interpretive manner, expressing its meaning.

After the hour of music, enjoyment followed at the refreshment table presided over by Mrs. Hough and Mrs. Howard Johnson assisted by Mrs. Thomas Stewart, of Allentown, Pa., and Miss Anne Hough.

The significance of the evening was heightened by the discovery that the program had begun at the exact hour of Mr. and Mrs. Hough's wedding day, twenty-six years ago.

Paul Hough will leave on Friday to begin an engineering course at Swarthmore University, near Philadelphia.

Hundreds More Are Registered For Canning Sugar

ELLWOOD CITY, June 16.—Registrations for canning sugar continued on Monday at the local high school gym with a larger crowd on hand to register than appeared the two registration days last week.

During the registration which was capably handled by the teachers and volunteer workers, the stock of application blanks run out, however, the Chamber of Commerce "went to bat" and produced several hundred mimeograph forms which were used.

This marked the close of the registrations at the school with all future applications to be made with the rationing board in the city building or at the county courthouse.

Miss Gertrude Jones Becomes Bride Of Rev. Mark Priestler

Candle-Light Ceremony Performed At U. P. Church
By Dr. W. E. Minter

ELLWOOD CITY, June 16.—Solemn and impressive was the beautiful candle-light wedding ceremony, culminating a college romance, solemnized on Monday evening at 7:45 o'clock in the First United Presbyterian church uniting in holy wedlock Miss Gertrude Jones, daughter of Mrs. Anna Jones of Fifth street, and Rev. Mark Priestler, pastor of the College Hill Presbyterian church, and son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert M. Priestler, of Rebersburg.

Dr. W. E. Minter, pastor of the church, was the officiant being assisted by Dr. Claude S. Conley, pastor of a Pittsburgh Presbyterian church, and with which the bridegroom was formerly associated. In the presence of a large assemblage of relatives and friends, the nuptial vows were exchanged before an all-green arrangement of banked ferns that was very lovely.

Mrs. Ralph Little, church organist, played many appropriate nuptial selections and the Wedding March from Lohengrin. David W. Rees, New Castle, accompanied by Mrs. Little, sang three selections, "When Song Is Sweet" by Gertrude Sans-Souci, "Until" by Milford Snaderston, and "Because" by Guy G. Hardelet.

Given in marriage by her brother, James Jones, the charming bride was very stately in a beautiful white floor length gown of broad-organza fashioned with a fitted bodice and full skirt. Her fingertip veil cascaded from a tiara of tiny seed pearls and she carried a colonial bouquet. Her only jewelry was a string of pearls, a gift of the bridegroom.

Miss Helen Sweet, of Cleveland, was the bride's only attendant, and she appeared in a becoming aqua silk marquisette gown with a matching bolero. She carried an arm cluster of flowers which matched her gown.

Rev. James Walther, of Pittsburgh, seminary classmate of the bridegroom, served as best man and ushers were Rev. Edward Reed, of St. Louis, another classmate, and David McClain, of Pittsburgh, who is still a seminarian.

A smartly appointed reception followed in the church parlor and was largely attended.

With the bride wearing a smart blue ensemble, the couple departed on a wedding trip and after their return will reside at the Presbyterian manse, College Hill.

Both Rev. and Mrs. Priestler are graduates of Grove City college. After teaching a year in Cleveland, Mrs. Priestler has been associated with the local high school as a biology teacher for the past two years. Rev. Priestler completed his training for the ministry at the Western Theological Seminary in Pittsburgh, and recently accepted the pastorate of the College Hill church after serving as an assistant pastor in Pittsburgh.

This is a Black Out

A wartime necessity, it makes people grope their way from place to place trying to go where they want to go, trying to get to the things they need even in wartime.

This is a Lighted Sign

It pierces the darkness... keeps people from groping... gives them the direction they need to go where they need to go.

This is a Newspaper

It gives directions, too. Its advertisements point the way to values. They show you what goods competitive merchants are offering, tell you when and where you can buy them, where to get the most value for your money.

During a war, time is valuable. Money must be spent wisely. Savings must be made to pay war taxes and buy Victory Bonds.

Because it saves your time and your money, by guiding you quickly to the best values, newspaper advertising is more important than ever during the war.

NEW CASTLE NEWS

Williamson Writes Back: 'Not Leery of Bombs'

New Castle folk out on the Pacific coast are not so leery of bombs these days. I. A. Williamson, of Long Beach, Calif., reports to Fred L. Rentz, president of The News, in a letter received today.

Mr. Williamson writes: Long Beach, June 9, 1942. The News Co.

Well, Fred, having nothing else to do, I take the privilege of writing this letter to let you and all of our friends back there know that all the people from the old home town whom we have contacted are well, and doing fine. None of them seem to be a bit leery about our location here, insofar as being bombed is concerned, but we all realize that anything may happen, so all departments are taking every precaution.

Many of the New Castle folks are working in airplane factories, and other defense plants. Ed Farrell, our good president of the Rambler club, is getting in plenty of time, and Johnny Haydon, James Blain and all the rest who are working in defense plants are putting in long hours, and let us hope that this same spirit of working is going on all over this great country, and that it may be the means of bringing this terrible war to a close soon.

Well, the Ramblers held their second picnic of the season on June 7 at Huntington park, in the city park, and it is needless to say that we had a grand time. There were a few new faces, but the same spirit of good fellowship existed. We had a long chat with Kate Durkin Hecht, who is police matron of Huntington Park. She is from the Sheep Hill district, and being an old acquaintance, I sure enjoyed the chat. After a very satisfying lunch, the members gathered in groups and talked about the past and present. The old home town (New Castle) came in for most of the reminiscence. My good wife joins me in wishing all our friends and kinfolk the very best possible, and to Betty, Marjorie, Scoots and Dad N. our regrets for any disappointment caused them.

Things are going as usual here, except that the radio stations have been off the air for a few nights. At the Ramblers picnic were James A. Baehler, Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Howard, Mr. and Mrs. V. Vandivort, Charles Barnett, L. D. Genaro, Dr. J. R. Plazzo, Charles O'Brien, Ben Farone, Mr. and Mrs. Ed McLaughlin, Mr. and Mrs. William Kunkel, R. A. Hinkson, Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Christoffer, Mr. and Mrs. Victor Stoop, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Riaby, Mr. and Mrs. John Travers, V. E. Gardner, Mr. and Mrs. A. M. McConaghy, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Speer, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Kunkel, Mrs. Frank Wilson, Mrs. Jim Blain, Mrs. Etta Hoskin, Mrs. Leone Patterson, Mrs. Retta Atkinson, Mrs. Kate Durkin Hecht, Mr. and Mrs. Earnest McCray, Ed. B. Farrell and Mr. and Mrs. I. A. Williamson.

Thanks for past favors, I remain as ever,

Fireworks Displays Curtailed By War

New Castle Manufacturers Cut
Production 50 Per Cent;
Concentrate On War-Work

New Castle, a center for the manufacture of display fireworks, will this year ship out about 50 per cent less of the expensive and explosive displays to patriotic communities than last year. At that, there will be between 45 and 50 of the large firework extravaganzas shipped in the near future.

The reason for the decrease is simple. "The war," said the representative of one of the New Castle companies, "is the whole thing. We are concentrating on what war products we can make to help this country win as soon as possible."

"Why we didn't even try to sell fireworks this year and still had as many orders as we had last year," he continued, "but we only filled half of them. War contracts come first."

The reason forty or fifty cities got their displays is so that the company can keep its hand in to be ready to keep New Castle at the top for display fireworks when the war ends.

The Great Wall of China is 2,550 miles long, including all known spurs, curves and loops, with 25,000 watch towers built into the wall, and 15,000 detached watch towers.

What You Buy With WAR BONDS

The U. S. Marine Corps and the Army too, for that matter, effectively uses the 50-caliber Anti-aircraft machine gun either mounted on a mobile base. These rapid-firing guns literally eat up the ammunition and a thousand rounds of ammunition costs about $240.00.

These guns are used to take low-flying airplanes. Since they fire about 600 shells per minute, that $240 worth of ammunition lasts a little longer than two minutes. So we need thousands of dollars in War Bond sales to furnish our Boys with ammunition for the tools of war. Your War Bond purchases every pay day will buy it. Buy War Bonds and Stamps to the tune of 10 percent of your income from Banks, Post-offices and at some department stores.

The Lawrence County Chapter has been producing articles of clothing and surgical dressings and is asking that the volunteers continue throughout the summer months as materials are being shipped into the chapter regularly to be made up.

FROM ME TO YOU

By MESEALL

It is reported that Mr. Hitler (some like to call him mister) and his strategists predicted that shortly after the United States entered the war that Washington would find it necessary to impose drastic selling and buying restrictions on the American people. His predictions further included that when this occurred the "dollar-crazy" American business man and the extravagant and spoiled American housewife would openly resent such government actions and that quickly there would be public uprisings, national chaos, and a fast breaking down of American morale.

Hitler's first prediction has come true, but his second, like many others he has made about our American people and their temperaments, has been a gross miscalculation. It is true that our government has over night literally deluged us with a barrage of restrictions and regulations which have made us groggy, but which at the same time have helped to make us realize that there is a lot we must do in order to WIN THE WAR. It must be very aggravating and disappointing to Mr. Hitler and his strategists to be informed that the American retailer is not tearing out his hair and causing public uprisings, instead, he is "bending backwards" locally, state-wide, and nationally to comply with all government requests so that individually and as a whole the war will be brought to a quick and successful end for our side.

There is no question in anyone's mind that government regulations already imposed and others to come have been and will be burdensome to each retailer. Another satisfaction and an important one that each man enjoys is that their full cooperation and quick willingness to comply is doing a major task in helping to build a similar attitude among the people they serve . . . their customers . . . THE AMERICAN NATION.

* * *

Your cooperation in all phases on this present emergency will assure your family to follow of the things that you have found so dear. Now you can be ready to assist in the blackout that will come on the 25th. Air-raid wardens and all helpers—those who will be at home or on the street . . . cooperation is the by-word.

Stock Market Develops Rally

Trading Comparatively Slow On New York Market During Morning

(International News Service)
NEW YORK, June 16.—The stock market rallied moderately today after a quiet opening. Steels and chemicals led the upswing, which carried a few issues a point above last night's closing levels.

Trading was comparatively slow. Air Reduction and Dow Chemical, along with Owens-Illinois Glass and Homestake Mining, were among representative stocks to rise a point or more. Several issues moved into new high ground for the year, including U. S. Gypsum, McIntire Mines and Hiram Walker.

Steels were paced by Bethlehem with a gain of almost a point. U. S. Steel advanced about a half-point. Fair-sized gains also were registered by coppers, electrical equipments, oils, aviation, rubber, rails, utilities and amusements.

There were a few laggards, notably Lone Star Cement on a slide of three-fourths to a new 1942 bottom of 31 1/2.

American Telephone, American Sugar, Philip Morris, N. Y. Shipbuilding and Continental Can were others to slide behind minus signs.

Sawdust Pile Catches Fire

Blaze Threatens Citizens Lumber Company Monday Afternoon

Damage of $150 was done, and the lumber yard and plant of the Citizens Lumber Company on White street was threatened by fire, when a big sawdust pile outside the boiler house started to burn Monday afternoon at 5:50 o'clock. Four fire companies responded to an alarm from Box 43, and soon had the blaze out. The fire started when hot embers from the boiler set fire to the sawdust. The fire in the boiler had been drawn to permit inspection by a state inspector.

Firemen were called to 7 North Cedar street, the home of Joe Frank, at 10:30 o'clock this morning, when gas leaking around the hot water tank ignited. No damage was done.

Blackout Plans Are Discussed

Blackout arrangements were discussed Monday night in the court house when Lt. Col. W. Fulton Jackson, executive director of the Lawrence County Council of Defense met with the heads of the various local councils of defense. Secretary Frank W. Hill also spoke.

Col. Jackson told the chairmen what their duties would be in the blackout, the duties of the air raid wardens, auxiliary police and what would be expected of the civilian population.

Meetings in the various political sub-divisions will be called and the duties of wardens outlined.

Regulations Being Made For Blackout In County, June 25

Lawrence County will undergo its first practice blackout on the night of Thursday, June 25, and the Lawrence County Council of Defense is preparing the details of the blackout now. In the next ten days you will read a lot of instructions on what to do during the blackout but today just a few of the fundamentals are being set down.

Right now won't you make up your mind that this practice blackout is serious, the Council of Defense means business and you should co-operate without any duress or coercion. Remember of course that during the night of the blackout the air raid wardens have the authority to enforce the rules, but it is hoped that no more than a request will be necessary.

Household Fundamentals

Quite naturally a complete blackout will not be endeavored for the reason that necessary war industries, transportation and utility companies must run.

The rules on the householder are fairly stringent and fairly simple. From eight-thirty on the night of the 25th to 5:30 on the morning of the 26th the county will undergo its practice blackout.

Sometime during the evening there will be a complete blackout for thirty minutes. This half hour period will be announced by sirens and when you hear the sirens blow, get under cover. The best thing to do is stay at home all evening but if you must be down town, get under cover somewhere.

No lights are to be shown from houses all night. This does not mean that you cannot have a light in the house. It does mean that all night no glaring lights should be shown from the house. A small pin point of light from a small lamp in a bath room or a sick room is all right but the usual lights of the home must not show through.

During the total blackout not a pin point of light should show from your home. It is not necessary to turn out every light in the house. Prepare one blackout room. This can be done by covering the windows with blankets or by black paint.

For the entire night arrange to have one room in your home which you will use and then cover the windows. If you have to move from room to room, use a flashlight but keep it light beam pointed down.

No Parties

This means that bridge parties, social gatherings, or reading under bright lights are out for that evening. If you have any social engagements for the evening at your home, cancel them.

During the half hour blackout there will be no vehicular traffic at all. If you are on the street or highway and you hear the sirens blow, pull over to the curb, turn out your lights and sit in the car until the all clear sounds.

The county will be covered with air raid wardens, the streets and highways will be patrolled by auxiliary police and the practice blackout will be made as successful as is possible. One of the elements of the success of it will be your co-operation.

Announce Staff For YWCA Camp

Miss Dorothy Stewart, "Y" Club Secretary, To Be Director For Summer

The staff at the Y. W. C. A. camp, Camp East Brook, is just about complete, with several of last year's counselors planning to return. The policy of the camp committee is to engage only senior counselors, that is, girls who have graduated from college, and preferably who have taught one, two, or more years.

Miss Bessie Burrows, Chirp of the last two summers, will be back in camp to call her cheery greeting to campers as they arrive on June 23. A teacher of several years experience, Miss Burrows comes from Ellwood City and will carry responsibility as song leader at camp.

Miss Louise Scott, also a resident of Ellwood City, is a teacher in the public school system of East McKeesport. Last year "Scottie" had charge of dramatics, but this year she will instruct in handicraft.

All the campers will be glad to hear about the return of Mrs. Pearl Mills, the cook, knowing that the meals of East Brook will be up to their former appetizing and nourishing standard.

What would Camp East Brook do without Mr. Fixit? Just nothing would be fixed. Who would fix girls' broken suitcases and make other repairs like Mr. Fixit? He'll be returning, too.

Miss Dorothy Stewart, club secretary at the "Y," will be camp director for the summer. Last year she was director during the first period.

New on the staff this summer will be Miss Ruth Weir, a teacher in the Pollock school of New Castle. Miss Weir, well known for her musical talent, both vocal and instrumental, will be accompanist at camp. Miss Weir has also had camp experience in Camp Woodlands, Long Lake, Maine, where she had charge of music.

Miss Emily Lou Weir, R. N., sister of Miss Ruth Weir, will also be a newcomer on the staff, but not a newcomer to East Brook, because she used to enjoy good times at East Brook as a camper. Miss Weir took her affiliated nursing course at the General Hospital in Philadelphia and graduated from the Jameson Memorial hospital in October, 1939.

Miss Virginia Hannan of Wexford, and a teacher in the public school system of Pittsburgh, will guide the camp dramatics. She is a sister of "Kit," who was sports counselor last year.

Miss Frances Urey, of Clearfield, and a teacher in the public schools of East McKeesport, will be the assistant swimming counselor. Although Miss Urey is the only counselor who has not had former experience teaching in camps, she comes highly recommended as an expert in this particular skill and as a person who likes and understands girls.

The camping season opens next Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock for girls 8 to 12 years of age. A number of vacancies still remain in case girls of that age desire to register.

Henderson Seeks Congress Peace

OPA Administrator Consults Key Legislators On Appointments

By WILLIAM S. NEAL

(U. S. Staff Correspondent) WASHINGTON, June 16.—Price Administrator Leon Henderson, it was disclosed yesterday, is seeking to make peace with Congress by consulting senators and some influential representatives on appointments under the rapidly expanding price control and priorities system. While Henderson has ignored Democratic state organizations in some instances and has named some Republicans, a canvass indicated that the system will be largely directed by new dealers or liberals.

Strong opposition to by-passing congress was voiced by some members on the ground that state councils of national defense—used in many instances for appointing purposes—are under domination of Republican governors.

The canvass also disclosed that many influential Democratic senators, while demanding that they be consulted, have refused to either accept or seek to make patronage organizations out of the state organizations, which ultimately may have more than 100,000 employees.

A senatorial canvass revealed: In one solid Democratic state Henderson named a state OPA director and then asked the two Democratic senators if they had any objections.

Another Democratic senator, while not asked to suggest a director, was consulted before an appointment was made.

Japanese Medals Returned On Bomb

Medals Presented To American Seamen Returned To Japs Attached To Bomb

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, June 16.—Medals presented two American seamen by the emperor of Japan have been returned to him in Tokyo—attached to a 500-pound bomb.

The seamen, Henry Vormstein of Lakeview, N. J. and John B. Laurey, of Brooklyn, received the awards when, as members of the crew of the U. S. S. Connecticut, the United States fleet visited Japan.

Last January, the pair got together and shipped their medals to Secretary of Navy Knox with the request they be returned to a bomb. The Navy secretary turned their request, and the medals, over to the ordnance department asking "appropriate action in consonance with the request."

On Monday the Third Naval district released a copy of Secretary Knox's letter to Vormstein:

"I Through the courtesy of the war department, your Japanese medal and a similar medal turned in for shipment by Shipwright John B. Laurey were returned to his royal highness, the emperor of Japan, on 18 April, 1942, by Lt. Ted W. Lawson, U. S. Army, with appropriate ceremony."

Baltimore Oriole Hangs Its Nest High

Of all the birds of the summer time, there is none more fascinating than the Baltimore oriole. His song, as he sings from the topmost branch of an elm tree, is most pleasing to the ear.

Beside having a delightful song, this "gay cavalier" with a breast that shines like a firebrand, makes a person think of autumn's falling leaves, as it darts from tree to tree, and destroy it."

Saturday afternoon, Rev. R. M. Patterson, of this city, and Rev. Fred P. Wilson, of Washington, D. C., both lovers of bird life, watched the nesting oriole, swinging in its pouch shaped nest, high from the limb of an elm tree. Mr. Fox was asked by these two gentlemen why the bird chose such a lofty spot to hang its nest. He replied, "You see that the bird's body is like the red in our Flag, and if it did not nest high, evil eyes would soon spot it out, and destroy it."

Squirrels and snakes are among the oriole's chief enemies, but they cannot reach the whiplike ends of the limbs, where the "cradle" hangs.

The fact that in New Mexico, Indian pottery was interred with the dead, accounts for the abundance of pre-historic pottery found there today.
